

Student Government Election Results

LPC's students have voted and the 2018-2019 Las Positas student government leaders are:

- Lylah Schmedel, President
- Hariel Colcol, Vice President
- Nathan Fish, Director of Legislation
- Kirstie Burgess, Director of Events
- Alejandro Buenrostro, Director of Communication
- Angela Vasquez, ICC Chair
- Garrett Culbertson, Student Trustee

Mental Health Services Grant

The Chabot-Las Positas Community College District has been awarded $350,000 to help both colleges augment mental health services for students. William Garcia, Vice President of Student Services says, "Our main objectives will be to expand our current mental health services to students, implement online mental health services to comply with accreditation standards, and to acquire and implement a new computer software program to help serve as a repository for behavioral and mental health intervention referrals."

LPC Selected to OEI Consortium

Las Positas College is one of 33 colleges selected to participate in the Online Education Initiative's 2018 Online Equity Cohort. The OEI, according to its website, is a collaborative effort among California Community Colleges to ensure that significantly more students are able to complete their educational goals by increasing both access to, and success in, high-quality online courses.

The 2018 cohort will initially have a special focus on student equity, including: culturally responsive teaching with a community of practice around online equity, name/gender identification for instruction, and student support services such as counseling, tutoring, and health services. Additional pilot online resources are integrated into Canvas for: community building, student engagement, and collaboration; faculty engagement in collaborative course development using OER materials in Canvas; support for the development of a local peer-faculty course review process to support equity and student success, and programmatic and technical preparation for Course Exchange participation.

LPC is expected to begin working with the OEI in July. Over the coming years, our students who cannot get the classes they need will be able to take those classes online from other colleges in the consortium. Conversely, students from other colleges will be able to take LPC online classes to contribute to their program completion.

"The Market" Debuts at LPC

At the inaugural "Market," on May 15th, Las Positas College Student Government helped over 150 individuals and families take home wholesome foods such as rice, pasta sauce, oranges, apples, corn, and potatoes. Students were excited to take home bags of food without having to pay a hefty grocery bill. Milla Lindevall, LPC student said, "I took home a few bags of potatoes and oranges; so cool!"

Students were asked to fill out a five question survey before choosing their free groceries. Questions included their name, if they were a LPC student, and how many people were in their family. After completing the survey, they were allowed to take two items from each table. Free bags were also provided.

LPC's student government plans to have "The Market" once a month, including the summer semester.

LPC News in Brief

ASLPC gets a name change: The ASLPC (Associated Students of Las Positas College) has won approval from both LPC students and the CLPCCD Board of Trustees to finalize their name change to LPCSG (Las Positas College Student Government).

Radio Las Positas: The Las Positas Radio folks are still at it, posting shows with Councilman Mark Salinas of Hayward and World Cup Coverage. Shows can be found on both the Radio Las Positas Facebook page and the Las Positas TV website at www.radiolaspositas.net/laspositastv.

Las Positas College Alumni: The LPC Express printed a "Where are they now?" column featuring Gasia Mikaelian. Mikaelian attended LPC in the 90s, transferred to San Diego State, and has worked as a journalist since obtaining her 4-year degree. Mikaelian has worked for the local KTVU station since 2005.

Las Positas Connection is published by the Office of the President. Issues are posted online at laspositascollege.edu/president. Alisha Perdue, Editor.
