

PSLOs for NENG Certificate in Communication and Writing in English:

Upon completion of the Certificate in Communication and Writing in English, the student will be able to use the grammar of Edited American English (including syntax and mechanics) and other Englishes to influence writing and editing choices.

Upon completion of the Certificate in Communication and Writing in English, the student will be able to edit sentences to serve a chosen genre or style or to meet the conventions of a style guide.

Upon completion of the Certificate in Communication and Writing in English, the student will be able to identify and use a multi-step process for reading and writing assignments.

Upon completion of the Certificate in Communication and Writing in English, the student will be able to identify and use strategies to improve self-efficacy, including campus supports.

Just for your interest, here is the catalog description and the CSLOs that flow up to the PSLOs:

Catalog Description:

This Certificate of Competency in Communication and Writing in English provides students with an opportunity to practice and hone their reading, writing, and research skills in service to their other academic coursework, their current jobs, and their future careers. In compliance with California law, they should not take the courses that comprise the certificate in preparation for transfer-level English; instead, they might take the courses as concurrent support while taking transfer-level English, as opportunities to take their learning further after completing transfer-level English, or as general preparation to read, write, and effectively communicate in the workplace.

SLOs for NENG 215, Personalized Coaching in Academic Reading and Writing:

Upon completion of NENG 215, the student will be able to identify and use a multi-step process for reading and writing assignments.

Upon completion of NENG 215, the student will be able to identify and use strategies to improve self-efficacy, including campus supports.

SLOs for NENG 210 (number will be revised to 220), The Craft of the Sentence:

Upon completion of NENG 210, the student will be able to write sentences that clarify logical relationships of ideas through use of coordination, subordination, and modifiers.

Upon completion of NENG 210, the student will be able to choose vocabulary that successfully communicates the writer's intention to an intended audience.

Upon completion of NENG 210, the student will be able to identify subjects, verbs, and modifiers in sentences.

Upon completion of NENG 210, the student will be able to describe the effects and uses of punctuation.

Upon completion of NENG 210, the student will be able to edit sentences according to the conventions of a chosen genre or style guide.